

dare to lead™

BRAVE LEADERS. COURAGEOUS CULTURES. WHOLE HEARTS.

A Three-Day Workshop in Vancouver, November 29 – December 1, 2019

It's not fear that gets in the way of Daring Leadership. It's our armor!

- Do you find yourself avoiding tough conversations for fear of being judged or misunderstood?
- Are you losing sleep over how to cultivate more drive and motivation in your team?
- Is a lack of trust leading to some unproductive and destructive behavior patterns in your organization?
- Are your self-protecting strategies getting in the way of serving others?

Dare to Lead™, an empirically based, courage-building program is built on four skill sets that are 100% teachable, measurable, and observable, and that move you from Armored Leadership to Daring Leadership. The exclusive Dare to Lead™ workshop benefits all who seek brave action, innovation, and transformation in their leadership, team and life. The goal of this work is to give you language and specifics on the tools, practices, and behaviours that are critical for building the muscle memory needed to live into these concepts. This work is experiential, and while it includes some video content from Brené, you will mostly learn through interactive activities, self-reflection, and facilitated conversations.

You'll learn the four skill sets of courage that ladder up to Daring Leadership:

- ✓ Rumbling with Vulnerability: Leaning into - and staying with - tough conversations that involve risk, uncertainty and emotional exposure, while also practicing empathy and staying true to our intentions.
- ✓ Living into our Values: Identifying what we stand for and how to show up in a way that ensures alignment of our intentions, thoughts, words and actions.
- ✓ BRAVING Trust: Learning and practicing the seven key elements of trust, in service of building courageous connections that hold our teams and organizations together.
- ✓ Learning to Rise: Developing the skills to get back up after a fall so we're willing to risk falling again, and re-writing the stories that no longer serve us.
